

Contributors

Pirjo Ahokas is professor of comparative literature at the University of Turku, Finland. She is the author of Forging a New Self, a monograph on Bernard Malamud's novels, and co-editor of Reclaiming Memory: American Representations of the Holocaust. She has published essays on ethnic writing and is currently working on a book on American women's literature. Pirjo Ahokas is the former president of the Finnish American Studies Association.

Benny Carlson is associate professor at the Department of Economic History, Lund University, Sweden. His research has been mainly devoted to the early twentieth-century history of economic and social ideas, particularly the spread of ideas between Germany, the United States, and Sweden.

Aidan Day was professor of British literature and culture at the University of Aarhus, Denmark, from 2001 to 2007. He now holds a chair in English at the University of Dundee, Scotland. His books include Jokerman: Reading the Lyrics of Bob Dylan (1988), Romanticism (1996), Angela Carter: The Rational Glass (1998), and Tennyson's Scepticism (2005).

Solidelle Fortier, Senior Economist, United States, Bureau of Labor Statistics, is the author of articles and bibliographies on Veblen and Grundtvig. She has been a lecturer in economics at Fordham University and C.U.N.Y. and has published articles in her field of labor economics.

Svante Nycander is retired chief editor of Dagens Nyheter, Sweden's leading morning daily. He was trained as a political scientist in the 1950s at Uppsala University, where he now holds a Ph.D. h.c. He was an editorial writer and for some years a reporter in Dagens Nyheter 1960-78, then chief editor until 1995. His books include Kriget mot fackföreningarna. En studie av den Amerikanska modellen (The War against the Unions: A Study of the American Model; 1998) and Makten över arbetsmarknaden.

Ett perspektiv på Sveriges 1900-tal. (The Power over the Labor Market: A Perspective on Twentieth-Century Sweden; 2002).

Henry Wasser, professor emeritus of American literature, City University of New York (C.U.N.Y.); former Vice-President, Sacramento State University; former Dean of Faculties, Richmond College, C.U.N.Y. Professor Wasser has published articles and has edited and published books on Henry Adams, American Studies and Higher Education Policy in Europe and U.S.A.. He is former Fulbright professor, University of Oslo and University of Bergen, having spent a second year at Oslo to substitute for Sigmund Skard as American Institute Director during the latter's sabbatical leave and co-edited Americana Norvegica with him.