

Preface

Post-Mao Intellectual Life in China is the theme of this the second issue of Copenhagen Papers in East and Southeast Asian Studies. This complements the discussion on post-Mao economic and political developments which were covered in the first issue. The papers here were, like the earlier ones, first presented at the conference "Ten Years After: The Post-Mao Development", held, with a grant from the Danish Social Science Research Council, November 7-9, 1986, in Elsinore, Denmark, and were revised in the fall of 1987.

On behalf of the Editorial Board I would like to thank Birthe Arendrup for serving as a guest editor of this issue. Gratitude is also due to Jens Østergård Petersen for helpful comments and suggestions.
