

Preface

In the spring of 1987 the Center for East and Southeast Asian Studies, University of Copenhagen, organized a lecture series on the topic of "East Asian Security and Foreign Policy in the 1980s". The series consisted of six meetings, starting in February and ending in June. Each meeting was based on a lecture by a distinguished expert.

This the third issue of Copenhagen Papers contains the lectures, as revised in the spring and fall of 1988.

On behalf of the Center I would like to thank the guest lecturers and the participants for their contribution and cooperation.

Gratitude is also due to the Danish Government Commission on Security and Disarmament Affairs which by extending economic support made the meetings possible.
